

Benefits of Becoming a Licensed User of the Resilience Quotient

In purchasing the license to use the Resilience Quotient, consultants and trainers become part of an expanding network of professionals working to enhance the resilience of individuals, teams, and entire organizations. As a Licensed User of the Resilience Quotient, you'll have access to research supporting the instrument, use of the Resilience Quotient at wholesale prices, a "start-up" kit that includes a copy of the instrument and a PowerPoint presentation for facilitating workshops on developing resilience.

Here's what becoming a Licensed User of the RQ brings you:

- Background Information on Resilience: Licensed Users of the RQ receive an article summarizing the historical research and background of the concept of resilience. The work of past and contemporary researchers on the issue of resilience is summarized to provide the Licensed User useful background on the concept and its relevance to organizations today.
- Research Data on the Resilience Quotient: Licensed Users of the RQ have access to the research data compiled by Russell Consulting, Inc. (RCI) that support the validity and reliability of the instrument.
- Customized Edition of the Resilience Quotient: RCI will create an RQ instrument that incorporates the Licensed User's company information and logo.
- Wholesale Prices of the Resilience Quotient: The RQ retails for $10 per person. Licensed users pay only $7 per person, payable to RCI quarterly.
- PowerPoint Presentation and Supporting Materials (Retail Value $150): Licensed Users of the RQ receive a PowerPoint presentation and supporting materials and handouts that can be used for conducting half- or full-day workshops on resilience. Both the PowerPoint slides and handouts are customizable to accommodate the Licensed User's teaching methods, timeframe, audience, and so forth.
- E-Mail Support and Consulting: Russell Consulting, Inc. provides free personalized e-mail support and consulting to Licensed Users of the Resilience Quotient. We can help you refine your use of the RQ in your training and consulting business.
